School
The School of Music, a full member of NASM, is a prominent constituent in the College of Visual and Performing Arts. Current initiatives of the School include an expansion of national and international reputation, of research/creative productivity, and of graduate studies. The School offers the B.M., B.A., B.S., M.M., M.A. and Ph.D. degrees and has a full-time faculty of 34, 24 visiting and adjunct faculty, over 250 undergraduate majors and 75 graduate students. A performance program of over 350 events uses both on and off campus facilities. The School of Music website is located at http://music.arts.usf.edu. Other units of the college include the School of Art and Art History, the School of Theatre and Dance, and the Institute for Research in Art consisting of the Contemporary Art Museum and the internationally acclaimed Graphicstudio. The USF School of Music community represents a broad array of culture and ethnicity, and it is committed to embracing diversity in its curriculum and in its faculty, staff and student population.

University
Founded in 1956, USF is one of four Research I institutions and one of eleven state universities in Florida. USF’s main campus is located on 1700 acres in northeast Tampa, with regional campuses in St. Petersburg, Sarasota and Lakeland. USF is the twelfth largest university in the US and enrolls 40,000 students from 50 states and 118 foreign countries. The library contains more than 1.6 million volumes, including recently acquired archival materials donated by Dr. Elliott Antokoletz, and by Dr. Benjamin Suchoff (New York Bartok Archives).

Community
The Tampa Bay Area has a culturally diverse population of nearly two million. Its historic Ybor City, the former cigar capital of the world, is a thriving center for jazz, blues and alternative music, experimental theatre, poetry and art. The University has convenient access to four major performing arts centers, including the Tampa Bay Performing Arts Center, the largest in the Southeast. The Bay Area is the home of the Florida Orchestra and also benefits from several local professional theater and dance companies. Rounding out its diverse cultural atmosphere are several museums including the Dalí Museum, the Museum of Science and Industry, and numerous galleries. Residents of the Bay Area enjoy a year-round comfortable climate, close proximity to several Gulf Coast beaches, and a wealth of leisure-time activities.

The University of South Florida is an equal opportunity, affirmative action, equal access institution.
